RD- MEDIUM-LOW-MANDLES. BEAMS, ROUNDS SEND TO FARMVILLE MANU- delivered a free lecture at Sanger Hall the pith of which was directed to the the pith of which was directed to the consideration of questions of pointed interest to the Mechanics' Institute of Richmond. A large crowd was present.

Dr. Curry expressed his gratification at the privilege of addressing such an assemblage of fellow-citizens, as he was deeply interested in everything pertaining to the nuterial, intellectual, and moral welfare of Richmond. The city has historic renown, but we should not live on worthy deeds of noble ancestors. Since the evacuation there has been Since the evacuation there has been marked progress, and the city is now noted for its excellent system of public schools, its higher institutions of learning, and its many and well-filled capital of over $10,000,000 invested in various branches of manufacturing incapital of over $10,000,000 invested in various branches of manufacturing industry. We need, however, for increased and permanent prosperity, more diversification of labor, a larger number of smaller mechanical industries, and more intelligent and skilled labor.

This movement for a mechanical institute is in the right direction, and it is well in the beginning to avoid irremeis well in the beginning to avoid irremedial mistakes. Technical education with us is in an empirical stage, and numerous questions bearing on it are open to discussion. The present pub-lic opinion, inquisitive and mouldable, may be utilized for a most valuable

The New Year's Dispatch showed

Although preparation for law, medi-cine, military and naval warfare has been enormous, it is only within the last few years that technical education of artisans, or of those engaged in manufacturing industries, has attracted much attention. The experiments made have established one principle as an axiom, that all proper technical educa-tion must rest on a basis of sound primary instruction. It was shown that this was involved in all solid preparation for any pursuit or business, and that mental discipline underlies all true

Dr. Curry dwelt with emphasis upon and exposed the hurtful delusion that in certain pursuits it is a waste of time to cultivate the mind. A man's occupation is not the whole concern of life, but is a means of activity to be used for good. To admit that any calling can be more successfully followed by the gnorant and vicious is to fasten an opobrium that sinks it below the level of honest and worthy occupations.

Dr. Curry insisted that, in addition to rudimentary instruction as given now, drawing should be, as in Sweden and Germany, among the obligatory studies. In industrial schools it is absolutely essential, for industrial arts of any kind can only be carried on where there is a good foundation of knowledge of irawing and design. Technical education involves the practical teaching of the principles of cience; their application to some of the leading practical arts or industries, and the pointing out of the true rela-tion of theory and practice. A museum might have a collection of raw materials and fabrics; a collection of toels scientific apparatus, instruments. and models, and a department of ac-dition to technical training, so much needed, should have special schools of science, such as the Worcester Free Institute, and it was suggested that Richmond College to civil engineering and theoretical mechanics might unite a course of training, so as with the thorough mental discipline now given there might be a knowledge of the applications of science is the practical

Dr. Curry had before him a recent the condition of workingmen and on the state of art industries, and the report of a German commission to inquire what branches of industrial training are carried on in special schools and workshops connected with schools in Germany and neighboring countries. The facts were too voluminous to be given, and only general results were stated, showing that foreign nations had found out that their trade and prosperity were dependent on skilled labor and the application of science to the useful arts. MATCH RUNNING-RACE FOR MARSHAL R. P. HUGHES.

United States Court.

United States Marshal Rutledge P. Hughes, charged with "embezzling certain moneys of the United States entrusted to his custody as marshal, and, unlawfully retaining and converting to his own use $1,053.07 ordered to be deposited by him by the District Court in the case of the United States vs. 214 boxes of munitions of war," was before Commissioner M. F. Pleaswas before Commissioner M. F. Fleas-ants yesterday. Accused was brought before the Court under custody of two Texas officers, and was represented by Messrs. John S. Wise and Edgar Allan When the case was taken up by the Commissioner Marshal Hughes said : "Before preceeding in this matter I ment : From various causes not neces sary to be stated in detail I found my-self indebted to the United States as marshal of the United States for the Eastern district of Virginia in a sum greater than I could immediately disgreater than I could immediately discharge. After exhausting all efforts in Virginia to raise the amount among my friends and by my own resources, I resolved to visit the State of Texas, where I had a large number of relatives in good circumstances, from whom I hoped to obtain assistance. I went directly to Colorado City, where I had a nephew. At every place I stopped I registered in my ewn name, and while staying at the house of my nephew in Colorado City I met a number of my friends and acquaintances whom I had known in Virginia and North Carolina. My presence and name were as well known in the community as those of any stranger could well have been. When approached by Captain McMurray, who asked my name, I unhesitatingly gave my name, residence, and office, and was surprised and distressed beyond expression at my arrest. But for my arrest I feel confident I would before this have succeeded in raising the amount of my indebtedness to the Government, and returned to Virginia and paid all I owed. The report that $2,000 was found upon my person or in my effects is untrue. I had with me $470, a sum about sufficient to make the trip I took. I had met Sheriff Ware before my arrest and been introduced to him by my own name. When arrested I volunteered to come with Sheriff Ware without requisition, and even to pay our expenses. The fore-Sheriff Ware and Captain McMurray were sworn, and their testimony cor-roborated Marshal Hughes's statement. Sheriff Ware said that Marshal Hughes mingled with some of the best citizens of Colorado City, and that the newspapers of Colorado City made local mention of the presence of Marshal Hughes in that city on a visit to his relatives and friends.

even to pay our expenses. The fore-going circumstances can be corrobo-rated by Sheriff Ware and Captain McMurray so far as the statements made are said to be within their know-relatives and friends. The Commissioner sent accused on to the United States Court, and agreed to bail him for his appearance in the sum of $5,000.

Mr. Edward Gill became surety for Mr. Hughes's appearance.

A VERY SUDDEN DEATH.

Decease of Mr. John M. Morris at the West

Mr. John Mosby Morris, of the firm of Davenport & Morris, died suddenly at 8:30 A. M. yesterday morning at the Westmoreland Club-House. Deceased had long been a sufferer from heart-disease, but his general health was good. Thursday afternoon he went out driving with a friend, and while complaining some of palpitation of the heart his spirits were high, and he enjoyed himself very much. In the evening he visited the Westmoreland Club, and while in conversation there with a group of friends suddenly com-plained of feeling very sick. He was put to bed and a physician summoned, but though he rallied towards morning he soon thereafter had another attack and died at the time stated. Mr. Morris was born April 21, 1850. in Henrico, and came to this city in 1866 as a clerk in the wholesale grocery of S. C. Tardy & Co. After re-maining several years with that firm he accepted a position as salesman with R. F. Williams & Co. January 1, 1875, he formed a co-partnership with John W. Cringan—previously of the firm of R. F. Williams & Co.—and Lewis H. Blair, under the firm-name of Cringan, Morris & Co., wholesale grocers, and continued with this firm until January 1, 1879, when he was admitted as partner in the well-known house of Davenport & Morris, of which he was an active member at the time of his death.

Mr. Morris was one of our foremos young business-men. He stood high for probity and enterprise, and his death is a great shock to a wide circle

His funeral will take place from St. Paul'schurch this afternoon at 4 o'clock. There is now before the Supreme Court of Appeals a suit of The Com-

TRUST PROPERTY.

SUPREME COURT DECISION.

tean & Gump vs. Roes, from the Corporation Court of Appeals on Thursday last rendered a decision in the case of "Christian & Gunn es. Keen," &c., reversing the decision of the Corporation Court of Danville. Judge Lewis delivered the opinion of the court, which was concurred in by all the other judges except Judge Lacy, who dissented on one point—namely, the power of Mrs. Keen to give a deed of trust. The case was as follows:

Mrs. Keen owned some real estate in Danville, settled to her separate use upon the following trusts: Which lot or parcel of land is to be held in trust by the said W. W. Keen, Jr., trustee as aforesaid, for the separate use of the said Mary V. Keen, wife of the said John Themas Keen; free from all debts heretofore contracted, or which may hereafter be contracted, by the said John Thomas Keen; and if at any time the said Mary V. Keen shall consider it to her interest to sell or otherwise dispose of the said lot of land and invest the proceeds thereof in other real or personal estate, the said W. W Keen, Jr., trustee as aforesaid, whenever the said Mary Y. Keen shall signify, in writing, her wishes in relation to such sale or other investment of the said property, shall make such sale or other investment, the proceeds thereof to be held by him for the like bonefit of other investment, the proceeds thereof to be held by him for the like benefit of to be held by him for the like benefit of the said Mary V. Keen, upon like con-ditions, and with like restrictions as those first mentioned in this instrument. John T. Keen, the husband of Mrs. Mary V. Keen, being engaged in busi-ness in Danville in the year 1877, made an arrangement with Christian & Gunn, merchants of this city, for them to make him advances from time to time during the twelve months between the 1st of March, 1877, and the 1st of March, 1878, to secure which advances he and his wife and her trustee united in giving a deed of trust on her aforesaid separate estate. said separate estate.

There being a large balance due to Christian & Gunn on account of advances made under said deed of trust, and the same not being paid, Christian & Gunn directed the trustee to sell under the deed of trust. In the mean time, John T. Keen having died, his widow, the said Mary V. Keen, sought to enjoin the sale on various grounds, and the Corporation Court of Danville granted her a perpetual injunction, on the ground that she had no power to charge her separate estate for her hus band's debts. From this decree Chris-tian & Gunn appealed to the Court of Appeals, which court reversed the dee below in all respects.

Upon the question of the power of Mrs. Keen to charge her separate estate, the Court was of opinion that as an incident to her separate estate she had the full power to dispose of it or encumber it as she might choose, with the concurrence of her husband, and that this general power was not restricted by the special power conferred on her of selling and reinvesting with the concurrence of her trustee. The only other question of interest decided arose out of Mrs. Keen's contention that several drafts which Christian & Guan accepted for John T. Keen before March 1, 1877, and paid after that date, did not constitute advances seamount due, and held the same to be a valid lies on the separate estate of Mrs.

Messrs. Christian & Christian and Colonel W. W. Gordon were counsel for Christian & Gunn in the Court of Appeals, and Messrs. Peatross & Harris, of Danville, for Mrs. Keen.
